

Call and FaceTime

You have the flexibility to make calls while using Predictable, enabling communication through text-to-speech. However, it's essential to note that any audio recordings attached to phrases will not be audible during calls. For users employing Head Tracking and Gesture Speak, it's necessary to disable the camera on FaceTime for compatibility.

Choose your call button preference. You can choose whether you would like to either display your contact list or call your starred contact when you engage the call feature key.

You also have the flexibility to use the Call button by placing FaceTime calls with iPads or FaceTime and phone calls with iPhones.

Manage your contact list by adding the names and phone numbers of individuals you would like to share your messages with. Additionally, you can designate one contact as a starred contact. When the "Call Starred Contact" feature is activated, this specific contact will always be called.
